

A Falcon Heavy rocket is shown in space, oriented horizontally. The rocket is white with black markings. At the rear, a cluster of red lights is visible. The background features a large, detailed view of the Moon's cratered surface on the right side, and a small, colorful planet or star in the upper right corner. The overall scene is set against the blackness of space.

SPACEX